

NFL DRAFT FACTS

DRAFT ORDER

The NFL's 2010 draft order was derived from the reverse order of 2009 regular season records, with the exception of the Super Bowl champions and the Super Bowl runners-up. For teams with identical records, drafting priority is given to any team that did not qualify for the playoffs. The team that advances furthest in the playoffs will draft last in their group. The next tiebreaker is strength of schedule, with the team with the lowest strength of schedule drafting first. The final tiebreaker is a coin flip.

ROUND-BY-ROUND ROTATION

The draft order of teams with identical records will rotate by round, with the exception of the Super Bowl champions and the Super Bowl runners-up, which will draft last and next-to-last in each round. Teams involved in two-team ties will alternate positions from round to round. In ties that involve three or more teams, the team at the bottom of the tied segment in a given round will move to the top of the segment for the next round, while all other teams in the segment move down one position. This rotation continues throughout the draft. New England and Cincinnati both finished with 10-6 records. Based on the strength of schedule tie breaker, the Bengals will draft first in the first round and the Patriots will draft first in the second round, with the two rotating throughout the rest of the draft.

PASSING

If a team does not make a pick during its allotted time period, the team "passes" and the pick will defer to the next team. The initial team may then at any point make a pick, regardless of whether or not the subsequent team has made a pick.

UNDERCLASSMEN ELIGIBLE FOR 2010 DRAFT

The National Football League has announced the names of 53 players who have been granted special eligibility for the 2010 NFL Draft. Each of the 53 players has met the league's three-year eligibility rule and each has submitted a written application in which he renounced his remaining college football eligibility. The deadline for receiving applications was Jan. 15.

COMPENSATORY DRAFT CHOICES

A total of 32 compensatory choices in the 2010 NFL Draft have been awarded to 19 teams. The Patriots received four compensatory choices in 2010, the most assigned to any NFL team. The Patriots have been awarded a total of 26 compensatory selections in the 17 years since the system was adopted prior to the 1994 draft. In 2000, the Patriots used a compensatory draft choice to select QB Tom Brady (sixth round, 199th overall).

Numbers and Positioning: The number of picks a team receives equals the net loss of compensatory free agents, with a maximum of four. The compensatory picks are positioned within the third through seventh rounds based on the value of the compensatory free agents lost. Compensatory picks cannot be traded.

Formula: Compensatory free agents are determined by a formula based on salary, playing time and postseason honors. The formula was developed by the NFL Management Council. Details on can be found at <http://www.nflmedia.com>.
